

Alameda County Child Care and Early Education Initiative: A Countywide Revenue Measure

October 2017

Alameda County

Alameda County is a vibrant, diverse community. It recently has also become a destination for technology companies and other industries, which has driven up the cost of living.

Families living in Alameda County struggle with:

- Stable housing
- Affordable access to quality child care and early education

A Readiness Gap

In 2016, only 44% of Alameda County children entered kindergarten fully ready for school

Source: 2015 School Readiness Assessment conducted by Applied Survey Research

An Access and Equity Gap

Child Care Deserts

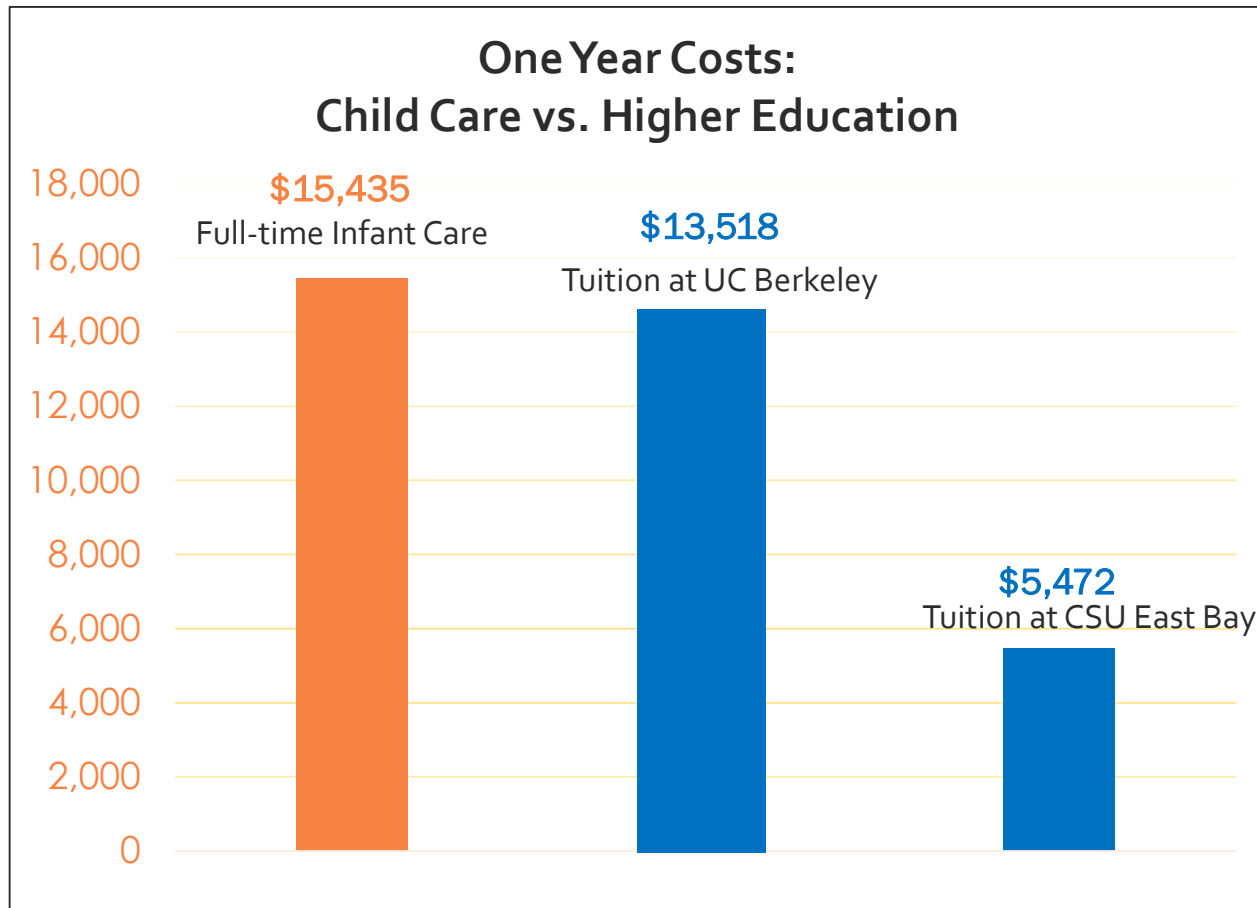

Insufficient Supply

69%

of Alameda County children with working parents don't have access to a space in licensed child care or early education

An Affordability Gap for Parents:

Child Care & Early Education is More Expensive Than College

Source: 2015 Child Care Portfolio Report, UC Berkeley and CSU East Bay

An Affordability Gap for Providers

$17,069

True cost of high-quality preschool for 3 & 4-year-olds, per child per year

$11,784

16-17 reimbursement rate for state preschool, per child per year
(only 69% of true cost)

A Wage Gap

- 75% of child care providers and early educators worry about paying monthly bills
- 54% worry about putting food on the table
- 48% of early educators rely on one or more government assistance programs

Eboni's Story

“With a daughter of my own, I often struggle to find affordable childcare. The irony, of course, is that I am an early educator myself. But without earning more, I have very few options. That’s why I’m a part of the movement to fight for $15 and affordable child care for all, so that the next generation won’t have to fight the same battles all over again.”

*--Eboni Warren, Former Staff,
YMCA of the East Bay*

A Quality Support Gap

Our system for measuring, improving, and maintaining quality only has enough funding to include 13.8% of Alameda County early education centers and family child care programs
