Description/Analysis

Issue Detail: A cursory review of the City Councils in 8 major cities across the nation (New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington DC, Miami, Dallas, Chicago, Los Angeles) revealed that none have a youth advisory position, held by an individual who is 18-24 years old, to their legislative body. In the Sacramento region, the only governing bodies that have a seated youth member, generally a high school student, are the school districts. Four of the 7 districts serving Sacramento youth have student members on their Boards of Education.

Councilmember Jay Schenirer hereby seeks to create a position that will further elevate the voice of the City's youth by providing a high profile, transparent, and direct channel between youth and the City Council.

Policy Considerations: The National League of Cities (NLC) has worked with local governments to engage young people intentionally and authentically in public policy, planning, and decision-making. Through this work, the NLC found that, when civic leaders and elected officials intentionally engage youth in their communities, young people's participation, and their encouragement of peers to do the same, increases. Moreover, the NLC has observed the following benefits resulting from meaningful and authentic youth engagement:

- Budget savings and revenue generation;
- Increased support for city initiatives;
- Improved policies and programs for youth;
- Identification as a youth-friendly community; and
- Improved indicators of well-being among youth.

It is in the City's interest to recognize that youth are an important part of its systems and communities and that youth perspectives will lend new understanding of the intimate aspects of proposed policies. Although the City has the Sacramento Youth Commission (SYC) in place, not all issues that ultimately reach the City Council that have an impact on youth are reviewed by the SYC. The creation of the Youth Advisory Liaison, held by an individual under the age of 24, institutionalizes the ability of City Council to better understand how proposed policies impact its young people and the future adult citizens of the City.

To demonstrate the City's commitment to the engagement of youth voice at a significant policymaking level and to recognize the benefits of doing so, a Resolution for the Creation of Youth Advisory Liaison to the City Council (Resolution) will be considered by the City Council for approval. The Resolution provides that the Youth Advisory Liaison will:

- Attend regularly scheduled City Council meetings, except closed sessions or quasi-judicial proceedings, to be available to City Council to provide advice on any matters relating to youth;
- Have a designated seat at the dais;
- Receive the City Council agenda at the same time such material is provided to Councilmembers; and
- Be invited to attend staff briefings offered to Councilmembers, except those briefings relating to closed session, quasi-judicial proceedings, personnel or labor matters, or any matters that are otherwise privileged.

The Youth Advisory Liaison will also present a report to the Sacramento Youth Commission, on matters presented to City Council related to youth, no less than once per calendar year or more frequently if necessary.

To ensure the success of the Youth Advisory Liaison, City staff will review and make recommendations to the City Council regarding potential staffing support for, and a stipend to, the Youth Advisory Liaison.

The selection of the Youth Advisory Liaison will be similar to the process for selecting City commissioners and will include a role for the Sacramento Youth Commission. Applicants for the Youth Advisory Liaison position must be between the ages of 18-24 at the time of appointment and have experience with at least one of the following criteria:

- Participating in a youth leadership program sponsored by the City of Sacramento, the County of Sacramento or a Joint Powers Authority located within the County of Sacramento;
- Participating in a leadership skill-building program, through a multi-session curriculum, presented by a community-based organization located within the City of Sacramento; or
- Attending and making public comment at a minimum of 3 Sacramento Youth Commission or 3 Sacramento City Council meetings, within the 12 months prior to appointment.

Commission/Committee Action: On November 15, 2022, the City Council directed the Sacramento Youth Commission (SYC) to review a proposal for a youth advisory position on the City Council and report back to the City Council with their feedback and recommendations. Since that directive from City Council, a Resolution based on the prior proposal for the creation of a Youth Advisory Liaison to the City Council has been drafted. The SYC has been directed to review the proposed position and provide feedback to the City Council.

Rationale for Recommendation: Creating a Youth Advisory Liaison to the City Council is in the City's long-term interest. By deepening the engagement of young people in the City's policymaking, the City is creating a new cadre of civic leaders. Moreover, there are multiple benefits documented by the NLC that result when youth are intentionally and authentically engaged in a locality's policymaking and planning efforts.

Financial Considerations: It is anticipated that the proposed position will be associated with expenditures in the form of a stipend and/or training allowance and potential staffing support as staff continue to review these considerations.

Local Business Enterprise (LBE): Not applicable.

Background: As part of its ongoing commitment to supporting youth within the City of Sacramento, the City Council established the SYC in 2019. (Ord. 2019-0010.) The SYC provides a means to engage community youth while providing them with a platform for their opinions and advice.

On August 31, 2022, the City Council directed staff to research the viability of a youth advisory position to the Sacramento City Council, to further explore ways to empower community youth and bring the voice of youth to Council discussions.

On November 15, 2022, the City Council directed the SYC to review a proposal for a youth advisory position on the City Council and report back to City Council with their recommendations. Since that directive from City Council, a Resolution for the Creation of Youth Advisory Liaison to City Council has been drafted, that is based upon the prior proposal. The SYC is to review the Resolution and provide feedback to City Council.
